

DOG RACE TRACK OPERATORS FINED

FOUR PRISONERS ATTEMPT BREAK

RECAPTURED AFTER
RACE AMONG CROWD
ATTENDING CIRCUS

Plot Launched While Being Removed To Reformatory

MANSFIELD, O., May 14.—Four "long-term" Ohio State Penitentiary prisoners, part of a truckload of fifty-seven convicts who were being transferred to the Ohio State Reformatory here, are in solitary confinement at the reformatory today as the result of their daring attempt at escape in downtown Mansfield yesterday afternoon when a number of shots were fired.

Picking the locks on the handcuffs which had fastened them together, the four, including the somewhat notorious Fred Kellogg, 31, the alleged leader in the famous Junction City brick plant delivery, jumped from the truck and made a short-lived dash for freedom.

Penitentiary guards and national guardsmen fired at the fleeing prisoners but they soon had to hold their bullets in check because of the unusually heavy crowds on downtown streets, which had been attracted there by a circus.

The guards gave chase and the men were rounded up in a few minutes. One had run into a blind alley and trapped himself. A second jumped through the window of the First Methodist Episcopal Church and was captured inside. The other two failed in their foot race with guardsmen.

The prisoners were part of a consignment from the Ohio State Penitentiary, where overcrowded conditions following the Easter Monday night fire in which 329 convicts perished, forced the transfer.

Mansfield reformatory is filled to capacity, not only with its own prisoners but with approximately 300 convicts from the penitentiary. Fifty-one penitentiary convicts, who were described as well-behaved, were sent back to the penitentiary early yesterday to make room for the consignment in the afternoon.

Those who attempted to escape are:

Fred Kellogg, 31, who is serving a ten to twenty year sentence for manslaughter, which resulted from his conviction of killing Guard Weakley in a prison break at Junction City, where the guard was shot and killed when he had taken Kellogg and three other convicts to a dentist's office. Kellogg has a long record.

Clyde Pittro, 26, who is serving twenty to thirty years for robbery. He was admitted from Summit County.

Frank Allison, 26, who is serving ten to twenty-five years from Lucas County for robbery.

Frank Sanders, 23, serving twelve to twenty-five years from Summit County for robbery.

GOVERNMENT RAIDS
CORN SUGAR GROUP;
FORESEE CAMPAIGN

Twelve Accused Of Furnishing Sugar To Bootleggers

AKRON, O., May 14.—A vigorous offensive against Ohio corn sugar rings that supply the bootleg industry was expected to be launched by federal authorities today following the arrest yesterday of twelve men and the seizure of ninety tons of corn sugar in a raid on the Isar Sugar Co. warehouse.

The raid and its resultant arrests were the first conducted in this district under the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court branding the sale of supplies for the manufacture of illicit liquor as unlawful.

Success in conventions in this case would, it was believed, start a landslide of similar raids and arrests.

Among those arrested in yesterday's raid which was conducted by Deputy Prohibition Administrator John E. Wright, was Leo Isar, 30, self-styled "sugar king" and owner of the warehouse. The others who were arrested were employees of Isar.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Martin J. Monahan following their arrest the twelve pleaded not guilty and were released on bonds, ranging from $2,000 to $5,000, pending a hearing May 27.

Isar, for whom bond was set at $5,000, declared after he had arranged bond for himself and his employees, that he would "go right on selling sugar." His attorney said that he could not see why his client didn't have as much right as any other dealer to sell sugar.

Fighting City Manager Chosen For Cincinnati

By Central Press
CINCINNATI, O., May 14.—A never-surrender fighter for political ideals is the description which Cincinnati applies to its newly appointed $25,000-a-year city manager, Clarence Addison Dykstra. More recently of Los Angeles, he began his municipal research (and battles) in Cleveland.

With great energy and industry, he has dived into municipal problems in the past, come what may, yet, without, retained the respect of the opposition.

In his early fifties, Dykstra was born in Cleveland. As a young man he became a student of political science, obtaining degrees from the Universities of Iowa and Chicago. He then taught political science at Ohio State University and the University of Kansas. Following which he returned to Cleveland as executive secretary of the Civic League, now the Citizens League.

His View of Government
At that time he remarked, "I stand for municipal government based on efficiency and not on politics. I favor non-partisan city government, thoroughly honest and progressive."

Dykstra soon became a powerful figure in Cleveland by making his organization an independent and disinterested civic body. He was one of the committee of fifteen, which studied the Cleveland charter and advocated the manager plan.

In 1920 he left Cleveland to become secretary of the Chicago City Club. Then returned to his books. In 1922, as instructor at the University of California, Los Angeles branch. At the time of his appointment to succeed Colonel C. O. Sherrill as city manager of Cincinnati he was head of the personnel division of the Los Angeles municipal water and power department.

Colonel Sherrill resigned to become vice president of a large grocery corporation.

Charles Hannah, "Broke" When Released From Jail, Now Has Plenty Cash

WOOSTER, O., May 14.—"To what do you owe your success?" Wayne County authorities would like to know the answer to this question from Charles Hannah, who no so long ago was one of the principals in Ohio's most baffling case—the Melvin Horst mystery.

Two or three months ago, Hannah was reputedly as "poor as Job's turkey"—so poor, in fact, that newspapermen aided in the support of his family while he was being held in jail in connection with the disappearance of four-year-old Melvin Horst from Orrville, December 27, 1928.

Today Hannah is apparently well-to-do, enough so that he bought a bicycle for his son, Junior, and still had plenty to move to Cleveland.

What is the source of this mysterious wealth? Wayne County authorities want to know, which Hannah has apparently inherited since indictments charging him with murder and child stealing in connection with the Horst case were nulled and he was released last April 4 from the county jail.

"Hannah hasn't done a lick of work since he got out of jail," according to Deputy Sheriff John Kiener, "but he seems to have plenty of money."

Before he became implicated in the Horst case, Hannah worked in a local bakery at $14 per week. Since his release from jail and the entanglements of the Horst case, Hannah has been living at his home here with his wife and their son, Junior, and Mrs. Hannah's 82-year-old mother.

The curiosity of Wayne County officials as to Hannah's mysterious wealth was first aroused several weeks ago when the man and his son walked into a store here and purchased a bicycle for the boy. A roll of bills from which Hannah paid for the bicycle was described by the proprietor of the store as "big enough to choke a horse."

That Hannah and his family have moved to Cleveland was revealed when John Shanklin, who owns the house in which Hannah lived, went to collect the rent, Hannah and his family were gone. It was later learned that Hannah had moved to Cleveland, where he "had a job or something," according to authorities.

REPORT ON MENTAL DISEASES IS HEARD BY STATE MEDICOS

Expect Conditions To Increase Says Committee

COLUMBUS, O., May 14.—That between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 is spent yearly for caring for persons who are afflicted with mental and nervous diseases, was the almost astounding fact contained in a committee report which today had been given to members of the Ohio State Medical Association at the annual conference here.

One out of every 325 persons in the United States is a patient in an institution for nervous and mental disorders sometime during his or her life, the mental hygiene committee reported.

Nine hundred sixty thousand of all the students in the country's schools and colleges run the chance of entering a hospital for nervous or mental diseases, it was stated.

A prediction that such patients would increase 213,000 during the next fifteen years was made in the report, which estimated the number of persons suffering from a mental disease at more than 900,000.

There are 60,000 persons in Ohio alone who may be classed as "feeble-minded," the report declared, and of more than 30,000 mentally deficient persons in state institutions, slightly more than half of that number are in hospitals for the insane.

In his annual address to the convention delegates last night, Dr. Albert Freiberg, of Cincinnati, retiring president, declared that doctors must not only be a carpenter and repairer of humanity but also a social scientist.

Next year's convention city is to be selected this afternoon after the 1931 officers are chosen.

Dr. Freiberg will be replaced by Dr. C. W. Waggoner, of Toledo, who is the president-elect of last year's convention. The president chosen this afternoon will take his office a year from now.

The meeting will formally adjourn tomorrow afternoon.

BATTLE OVER STEEL MERGER RESUMED

CLEVELAND, May 14.—The battle to halt the consummation of the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation was to be resumed here today when attorneys for Cyrus S. Eaton were to take the deposition of Henry G. Dalton, partner of Pickands, Mather and Company.

The depositions are being taken in preparation for the hearing of a suit to enjoin the merger.

A deposition will be taken from James A. Campbell, chairman of the Sheet and Tube board, Friday, Eaton's attorneys said. Next week depositions will be taken from officials of the Bethlehem concern.

GANDHI FOLLOWERS PLAN SUCCESSION OF RAIDS ON SALT PANS

WILL HONOR BRYAN

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A handsome memorial to the late William Jennings Bryan, the "great commoner" and Democratic leader will be erected in Washington, but it can't be within a half-mile of the capitol.

The house library committee, in reporting a bill passed by the senate authorizing the memorial specified it cannot be placed on any part of the Mall, between the capitol and Lincoln Memorial, which are in line with the Washington monument and the reflecting pool.

The memorial is to be erected by a private association. It probably will be a tower with carillons.

CHINESE TO SEARCH ALL FOREIGN SHIPS FOR ARMS SUPPLIES

See International Complications In Plan Of Nationalists

LONDON, May 14.—The Nationalist Chinese government has issued instructions to stop and search all foreign vessels entering or leaving Tientsin and confiscate all arms and ammunition found on board it was officially announced today according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokyo.

Government circles in the Japanese capital foresaw serious international complications as the result of this move by the Nationalist government.

SHANGHAI, May 14.—Conflicting reports were current from along the Lung Hai railway front between Peiping and Nanking today as Nationalist forces and northern rebels jockeyed for strategic advantage in the vicinity of Hsuehwei, important rail junction in the Kiangsu province.

Rebel forces were hurried to the Lung Hai sector by General Peng Yu-Hiang, so called "Christian general" and General Yen Hai-Shan, governor of Shansi province.

The Nationalist government announced its forces had scored a victory in early fighting along the northern section of Honan and Anhwei provinces.

Under the direction of General Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Nanking government and commander in chief of the Nationalist army, bombing planes were conducting reportedly successful raids along the critical Lung Hai area.

The bombers, recently purchased from the United States, were reported to have done considerable damage to base camps of the northerners.

The northern military chieftains, however, announced the first battle had resulted in defeat for the Nationalists and desertion of an entire division of the rebel cause.

Foreigners have been requested to evacuate areas where the fighting was expected to become severe.

SECOND GROUP OF MOTHERS ON TRIP

NEW YORK, May 14.—Two hundred and sixty mothers, making up the second contingent of gold star mothers sailing to view the battlefields of France where their sons are buried, left New York early today on the liner Republic.

Among those sailing was Mrs. Mathilda Burling, National leader of the Gold Star Mother's Association.

In his annual address to the convention delegates last night, Dr. Albert Freiberg, of Cincinnati, retiring president, declared that doctors must not only be a carpenter and repairer of humanity but also a social scientist.

Next year's convention city is to be selected this afternoon after the 1931 officers are chosen.

Dr. Freiberg will be replaced by Dr. C. W. Waggoner, of Toledo, who is the president-elect of last year's convention. The president chosen this afternoon will take his office a year from now.

The meeting will formally adjourn tomorrow afternoon.

POLICE SUBDUE STUDENT RIOT AT CHICAGO U.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Order was restored on the University of Chicago campus today after 300 inflamed students last night engaged in a riot that was broken up when police squads charged them, shooting in the air.

Four students were arrested in the melee with the police. They were later released.

British General Is Target Of Attack; Arrest 200

BOMBAY, May 14.—The city of Dharasana, headquarters of the British government's salt monopoly, was chosen today by the all-India congress at Allahabad as the "fighting center" for the Nationalist movement fostered by Mahatma Gandhi.

Successive batches of volunteers will be sent to Dharasana to raid the salt pans. As each batch is arrested, another will be dispatched in its place.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, Indian poetess and present leader of the independence movement, is leaving Bombay for Dharasana tonight to lead a raid on the salt depot. Her arrest is regarded as certain as authorities have issued strict orders prohibiting assembly of more than five persons at one time and place.

Farmers from all over the Barod and Taluka districts met here today and swore a solemn oath not to pay government taxes and to boycott British government servants, who were characterized as "traitors to their country."

LONDON, May 14.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate General Sir Robert A. Cassels, adjutant-general of the British Indian army, last night at Lahore, according to a dispatch received here by the London Daily Mail today.

Attackers fired several rounds at the general's bungalow. Sentries returned the fire, although they could see little in the darkness.

General Cassels was absent at the time of the raid.

Bullets shattered windows of the bungalow and pierced the walls but no one was injured.

LONDON, May 14.—Delayed dispatches to the Daily Mail today said in a serious riot Saturday police had clashed with a mob in Dabul, in the district of Lakhmipur Assam, and three were killed and ten seriously wounded.

It was estimated there were a hundred casualties.

LONDON, May 14.—More than a score of persons were injured and 158 Indian Nationalist volunteers were arrested today at Shiroda when police fought a raid on government salt depots there according to dispatches to the London evening newspapers.

More than 200 were arrested there yesterday when a similar raid was attempted.

MEDICINE MEN FAIL TO SAVE MURDERER

RAWLINS, Wyo., May 14.—"Medicine making" by Indians on the Apapahoe reservation near Lander failed to drive away the "devil rope" and Charles Aragon, Indian slayer, was hanged at the state penitentiary here today.

Aragon was convicted of the killing of Ed and Jesse Large, father and son, in Riverton on September 8, 1928, because of jealousy over the affections of Nellie Large, estranged wife of Jesse.

Medicine men of the Arapahoes held several ceremonies of "medicine making" within the tribal council fires in an effort to save Aragon from the "devil rope."

Aragon's execution was on a mechanical gallows by which the condemned man virtually hanged himself.

SENTENCED TO PEN

CINCINNATI, O., May 14.—Elmer Kirkman, 29, today was under sentence to serve nine years in the Ohio State Penitentiary after pleading guilty to molesting his own 7-year-old daughter.

TURNER FAILS TO BEAT RECORD

CAPT. ROSCOE TURNER

NEW YORK, May 14.—Captain Roscoe Turner was undecided today whether he would again attempt to set a new transcontinental airplane record. An announcement on his decision was expected later today.

Captain Turner arrived here last night from Los Angeles nearly an hour behind the record coast-to-coast flight of fourteen hours, twenty-three minutes and twenty-seven seconds of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. He was out of gas when he reached Curtis Wright airport at Valley Stream, Long Island, and his plane went into a ground loop but the flyer, as well as his lion cub mascot, escaped injury.

The aviator said he encountered bad weather in the midwest and New Mexico and strong head winds interfered with his race against time.

Turner followed the tactics of Lindbergh and flew at great height, maintaining an average altitude of about 12,000 feet.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY AT DAYTON INDICTS 73 IN JAMAICA GINGER CASES

SOLONS BENEFIT

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The cigarette price cutting war has reached the restaurant of the senate. Now the price of popular brands of cigarettes is two for a quarter instead of fifteen cents a straight. This price cut is the result of a falling off in cigarette sales when it was found that patrons were buying their smokes cut rate at downtown cut rate stores.

Concern Indicted Also For Selling Grape Juice

DAYTON, O., May 14.—Seventy-three men from all parts of the country today had been indicted by a federal grand jury here in connection with the government's nationwide investigation into the alleged sale of Jamaica ginger as a beverage.

Several deaths have resulted in Ohio and more than 100 persons were paralyzed after drinking the compound which is known as "Jake."

Those who were indicted included:

Austin Dolan and Harry Gross, of Boston, Mass.; Irving S. Wolfe, Altoona, Pa.; Myron E. Kennedy and George Hennigan, of Marion, Ind.; Dock Pierce and Lon Yockum of Middleboro, Ky.

P. D. Whitehurst, Corinth, Miss.; Hill brothers, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Walter Anderson, New York City; J. Carr Boyd, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Samuel Wheelock, Johnson City, Tenn.; Henry Berger, Marion, Ind.; S. A. Hall, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Daniel Parsons, Bethel, Ohio.

Abraham Michaels and John J. McVeigh, New York City; The Hub Products Company, Boston, Mass.; Max M. Guggenheim and Albert M. Guggenheim, of Cincinnati, and the Rash Manufacturing Company, Middleboro, Ky.

The indictment charges them with "having unlawfully, knowingly, wilfully and feloniously conspired to defeat the prohibition act by transporting to Cincinnati, Columbus and other cities approximately 5,000 gallons of ginger or 'jake' for beverage purposes."

Included in other indictments which were returned by the federal jury, were those against the California Grape Company, William J. Vaughn, A. J. Futter and Carl A. Futter, all of Chicago. The concern and the three men were charged with violation of the national prohibition act by allegedly selling unfermented wine.

REPAIR PLANE TO CONTINUE FLIGHT

RANGOON, Burma, May 14.—Repairs were being hurried here today on the light Moth biplane in which Amy Johnson, youthful English aviatrix is attempting a record solo flight from England to Australia.

Miss Johnson landed by mistake in a playing field which she mistook for the Rangoon racetrack yesterday afternoon. Her machine taxied into a depression and the wings, landing gear and propeller were slightly damaged.

She has covered more than two-thirds of the 11,000 mile flight and she was two days ahead of the record set by Bert Hinkler.

Her flight here was made from Calcutta over dangerous Indian jungles and the Bay of Bengal.

WILD BOAR ESCAPES

DAYTON, O., May 14.—A reward today had been offered by the management of a local amusement park for the capture and return of a wild boar which escaped yesterday by burrowing its way out of a cage.

WINS JUDGMENT

COLUMBUS, O., May 14.—Mrs. Charlotte Rollins, Columbus housewife, today had won a $10,000 judgment from a local taxicab company as the climax to her suit which she filed after she was run down in a safety zone by one of the taxis of the company.

Her suit asked $20,650.

TWENTY-SIX PLEAD GUILTY WEDNESDAY TO SETTLE CHARGES

Wantz, Heintz Draw
$500 Fines; Cashiers
Fined $10 And Costs

Appearing in Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning Attorney Frank L. Johnson, Xenia, counsel for the Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., which financed construction of the $75,000 dog racing plant at Fairfield, withdrew not guilty pleas and entered pleas of guilty on behalf of twenty-four ticket sellers and two of the principal promoters of the partnership organization, against whom gambling charges have been pending as an outgrowth of a raid on the track last July 26.

The pleas were changed to guilty in view of the fact the conviction of Charles R. Fay, Middletown, chairman of the board of directors of the organization, accused of permitting the selling of pools on dog races, was recently upheld by the second district court of appeals.

As in the case of Fay, who was fined $500 and costs and given a suspended sentence of six months in the County Jail, C. G. Wantz, Hamilton man, credited with being the inventor of the mechanical rabbit used as a lure for the racing greyhounds, had disposed of his interest in the amusement company before county authorities raided the track at the close of the opening night's racing program.

Fines of $10 and costs were imposed in the case of the twenty-four ticket sellers, who were accused of selling pools on the dog races.

It was agreed that the fines and costs imposed upon the twenty-seven men against whom gambling affidavits were filed would be paid out of money seized by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and his deputies at the track when the raid was conducted. The sum confiscated amounted to $3,175.65 and after payment of fines and all costs any balance existing in the fund will be returned to the partnership organization.

The Fairfield racing plant has been dark since the raid nine months ago and no further plans for re-opening the track with a betting system in vogue are believed under contemplation for the present.

A list of the twenty-four ticket sellers who were each fined $10 and costs follows: Samuel Marker, John Chevis, John Franklin, Mike David, Jacques Darling, Virgil Schaffer, L. A. Gough, J. C. Bonner, Leslie Everett, Joseph Scully, John Mellin, Die Jones, Martin Weaver, Samuel Thomas, Walter Tyler, William Schanefele, C. A. Fleming, C. A. Beanson, Edward Gasker, Henry Kuntz, John Hayes, Walter Wilkinson, O. L. Holmes and R. D. Helmer.

MAYOR OF VILLAGE COMMITTS SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Investigation was under way here today into the suicide of Andrew Odvody, 47, mayor of Newburg Heights.

Odvody's dead body was found lying in the garage in the rear of his home late yesterday. A .33-calibre revolver was found on the floor nearby.

A note was left on the kitchen table. It read: "To the family. My troubles are over now. Gilbert, take good care of Ma and Evelyn." Gilbert is Odvody's 23-year-old son. Evelyn is the mayor's eight-year-old daughter.

Authorities were completely baffled as to the motive for Odvody's suicide, which occurred just six weeks following the sudden death of John G. Tegg, former Newburg Heights mayor.

YOUTH DROWNS IN RIVER AT DAYTON

DAYTON, O., May 14.—Funeral arrangements today were being made for Luther Barton, 24, who drowned in Miami River near Island Park bridge here late yesterday.

Paul Scaffer, 24, a companion of the victim, made a valiant effort to save his friend while Barton's father and sister looked on from the banks.

Barton's body was later recovered by firemen. He was the first drowning victim of the year.

COLLEGE CONTACTS HELP IN PROMOTING RACIAL RELATIONS

The Inter-Collegiate Contacts Committee of Wilberforce University, a feature of this year's administrative program, has done much in the promotion of better racial relations through meetings and the exchange of lectures by faculty members, with some of Ohio's leading colleges.

Primarily because of the unique position Wilberforce occupies in the educational world and its geographic location, conditions are ideal for the exchange of contacts that lead to better racial understanding and appreciation.

The inter-collegiate contacts program this year embraces exchange lectures with Bluffton College, Antioch, Cedarville College, the University of Cincinnati, and Ohio State University. Most of the work has been done by the departments of sociology, with Wilberforce departmental instructors lecturing at the respective colleges at the same time those college lecturers were holding symposiums and seminars at Wilberforce.

In addition to Ohio college exchanges, Earlham College of Richmond, Ind., exchanged a seminar on religious education with Wilberforce, with Dr. Ridley, head of the department of philosophy and psychology, conducting the seminar at Earlham.

Extending its influences beyond class group discussions, President Gilbert H. Jones, addressed the entire student body of Wilmington College at chapel assembly Wednesday morning on "The Responsibilities of the College Bred," with especial emphasis on the responsibilities for better racial understanding being largely those of the intellectual class.

Dr. Jones' talk was at the invitation of President B. O. Skinner and a like lecture to the student body of Wilberforce by President Skinner has been arranged by President Jones for the near future.

GRADE AVERAGE AT WILBERFORCE HIGH COMMITTEE LEARNS

The committee on grading procedure of Wilberforce University, appointed by President Jones to investigate the prevailing high grades of individual students, made its report last week at general faculty meeting based on an extensive survey and comparison of a like report of the University of Chicago, for the year 1925-26.

Investigation of the committee revealed a grade-point average of 3.32 as compared with a 2.98 average for the University of Chicago, that the norm for the entire university was 3.40, the average grade in the department of education, to an average of 2.98 for the University of Chicago norm, with the English grade as the standard.

The committee attributes this high standard primarily to the popularizing of courses by instructors and the lack of a ratio assignment policy regulating grading and recommended a grade ratio of assignment based on class percentage allotment, scaling from "A" to "F".

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Bound over to Probate Court recently by Theodore F. Longnecker, Bath Twp. justice of the peace as an outgrowth of an auto accident near Osborn, J. Warren, Dayton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated when arraigned Monday before Judge S. C. Wright. His bond was fixed at $500 by Judge Wright, who assigned his hearing for Wednesday.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

With the close of school only three weeks off students are beginning to look forward to the annual summer vacation period.

Class plays and the junior-senior reception are occupying most of the time now. The juniors have given their play and the seniors will give theirs Thursday and Friday nights of this week. Next week will find the junior-senior prom taking the time of the seniors and juniors. It will be given Friday night, May 23 in honor of the senior class and will be sponsored by the junior class. It has been the usual custom for the past few years for the juniors to entertain the graduating class with a large dance and social party from eight till twelve and this year's juniors are not intending to make any exception to the rule. Committees have already been appointed and have been working on the project for the last three weeks. They have arranged a decorating scheme that it is said will surpass any that has ever been used in the Central gym before. The various committees are being assisted by the class advisor, Miss Faye Cavanaugh. A special orchestra has been booked for the gala occasion and it is almost assured that everyone will have a wonderful time. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria at some time during the main party.

The senior class motored to Lakeside on Lake Erie last Saturday and returned Sunday evening after a most enjoyable trip. About forty members of the class made the trip accompanied by two ladies and six men teachers of the school. While there they visited many places of interest and of educational value. Little sleep was enjoyed during the trip but everyone had a good time and all say that they would be willing to return again very soon.

The seniors will present "Seventeen" in the high school auditorium Thursday and Friday nights of this week. Reserved tickets went on sale at Sohn's Drug Store Tuesday noon and tickets may be purchased from any member of the senior class for the small sum of fifty cents. They report that the ticket sale so far has been rather light. Final dress rehearsal was held Tuesday night under the direction of Miss Allen. The various committees that are connected with the play have been working hard and all members of the class are striving to make the play a great success.

In connection with the senior class play the seniors are editing this week's issue of the Central High Review, the school's weekly paper. It is the custom for the class that is giving the play to issue the "Review" for that week and so the task falls upon the seniors at this time. Ralph Baldwin has been chosen editor and he will be assisted by a very efficient staff.

The junior class received its first order of class rings and pins the latter part of last week and quite a number of the class are now sporting their possessions. The rings and pins are standard with the exception of the shank on the ring and each class chooses its own shank during the beginning of their second semester of the junior year. These are then delivered near the close of the junior year to those members of the class who are eligible to receive them. About forty members of the class received their orders last week and more will be given within the next few weeks. There are seventy in the class.

The H.Y. club held its regular noon luncheon meeting Monday at the school. There were twenty-two present. A short business meeting was held at the close of the luncheon. It was decided to select five new boys from the present sophomore and freshman classes to take the place of the present senior members of the club who will graduate this spring. These new members will be chosen by the club within the next few days and will be given their initiation before the close of school so that they may be ready to go right to work as soon as school begins next fall. Election of officers will also be held within the next week. A number of the boys may attend the boys training camp at Columbus during the last two or three weeks in August. The final exams this year will come on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of May 27, 28 and 29. School will be dismissed on Thursday because of the legal holiday on Friday, May 30. The seniors however will take their exams next week.

The sophomore class has charge of the candy sales in the halls for the remaining weeks of school. Each class has the sales a month at a time. The juniors just finished their turn a week ago.

The senior girls held a polar cake sale the other day and realized a neat profit from their labors. It was a hot day and business was rushing.

The junior class had charge of the refreshments at the May Day exercises last Friday afternoon. They sold pop, ice cream and candy. They received a nice profit from their hard labors all of which goes to make a bigger and better reception.

USE GAS

Gas for home heating during the Spring months, when ALL KINDS of changes in weather are experienced, is most economical. There are days too warm for a hot fire—and too cool for no fire at all. Gas takes care of the room temperatures on such days, and using the least of gas to do it. With Gas there are no overheated rooms, no drafts, no chilliness—and no colds.

GAS is the fuel for modern home heating—steam, water, vapor or warm air. You can have all the conveniences of Gas for Heating by installing a Gas Burner in your present heating plant. Call and let's talk it over or phone for an estimate.

CEDAR CLIFF CHAPTER D. A. R. HAS MEETING

Mrs. H. C. Aultman, Xenia, was elected regent of Cedar Cliff Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Miss Clara Kyle, Cedarville, Tuesday afternoon, when the last meeting of the current year was held.

Mrs. W. A. Turnbull was elected vice regent, Mrs. Fred Townsley, secretary, Mrs. Ethel Buck, treasurer, Mrs. Frank Turnbull historian and Mrs. I. C. Downs, registrar.

During the business session reports of the various departments were read and plans were completed for the annual memorial services to be held at Old Massies Creek Cemetery. The annual picnic will be held Flag Day, it was announced at the meeting.

Mrs. David McElroy closed the meeting with a paper on the subject of "National Defense."

At the close of the meeting the hostess and her assistant, Mrs. J. C. Townsley, served a light refreshment course and a social time was enjoyed.

ARREST YOUTH IN EMBEZZLING CASE

Meredith Burns, 18, against whom a secret indictment for embezzlement of $66.60 was returned by the May grand jury last week, was arrested by authorities at Leesburg, in Highland County, and returned to Xenia.

A peculiar angle to the case results from the fact that The Chew Publishing Co., from whom, it is charged, Burns embezzled $66.60 is not the complainant and is not a party to the action, the company's claim having been paid in full more than a year ago by Horace Anderson, who loaned the money to Burns for the purpose. The case was presented to the grand jury by Prosecutor J. C. Marshall at the request of Anderson, who claims he has not been reimbursed by Burns.

MOTHER QUIZZED IN CHILD'S DEATH

ST. JOHN, New Brunswick, May 14.—The mother of 5-year-old Goldie Drake, of Halifax, whose charred body was found in Nova Scotia woods, was held in connection with her child's mysterious death today.

Mrs. Drake had reported to authorities that Goldie had apparently strayed away when she faintly and became lost in the forest.

WORK STARTED TUESDAY ON NEW FIVE-COUNTY 4-H CLUB CAMP

Ground was broken Tuesday for the new 4-H Club Camp which will be developed near Clifton when county agents, club leaders and others interested in club work began work on the dining hall. This structure which will be a dining hall and kitchen combined, is to be twenty-four feet wide by seventy feet long. It was designed by Ohio State University architects and will meet all health rules and regulations when completed.

The new camp is being developed on a twenty acre tract of timber land lying along the Little Miami River on the A. B. Brewer farm, south of Clifton. A ten year lease has been obtained on this land and an ideal camp is to be developed. Work on developing a large spring under the cliffs for supplying water to the camp has already begun and a dam will be installed soon to force water to a supply tank near the dining hall.

The camp is being built by and for the club members of Clark, Madison, Clinton, Fayette and Greene Counties. The club camp for several years past has been held at Antioch Glen, but due to the fact that Antioch College expects to develop the tract it was necessary that the camp be moved.

LOCOMOTIVE GRATES IN HOME FURNACE

Lennox Torrid Zone Has Many Features Besides Steel-riveted, Gas-tight Construction

The most durable type of grates in the world are used in the Torrid Zone Warm Air Furnace. They are of the special rocking design as used in locomotives and are controlled from the outside by a long-handled "lazy" shaker. Hardly more effort is required to shake them than is used in brushing the teeth. Any woman can do it—and she could do it in a party dress without fear of dust or dirt because of the unusually tight-fitting grates.

The Torrid Zone is the ideal furnace for the fine residence and is made in types and sizes for homes of every class and for schools, churches, stores and office buildings. There are combination hot water and warm air types and others equipped with electric blowers for large scale operating. They are made for hard or soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas or oil—and they'll save money for you in the burning of any one of them. Made by the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. BOY SCOUT LEADERS TO ATTEND SEMINAR

Boy Scout leaders from Region 4 of the organization will meet for a periodic seminar in the Masonic Temple in Portsmouth, Friday. The meeting will be in charge of Perry A. Lint, Columbus, regional Scout executive.

"Group Leaders and Boy Character" (A. J. Gregg) will be the subject of the book to be discussed and reviewed by the Scout leaders. A book of this type usually forms the central point or theme of the seminars.

H. O. Portz, chief scout executive, Springfield, Homer T. Gratz, field executive, E. L. Blackburn, local scoutmaster, and the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, chairman of the committee of troop 45 will be in attendance. Carl Mellage, deputy scout commissioner, will also be present and will be one of the guides when the men visit a factory where the official scout footwear is manufactured in Portsmouth.

XENIANS WILL HEAR VOICE OF THE SKIES

Broadcasting from an airplane, a unique advertising stunt, will be heard here for the first time Friday morning between 11:30 and 11:45 o'clock when A Voice of the Skies Aerial Broadcasting Unit, mounted on a Curtiss-Robin plane, will fly over Xenia and deliver messages from a height of more than 2,000 feet.

The unit is being brought here by the Cussins and Fearn Co., which operates a Xenia store. The stunt was introduced in New York City last year by Curtiss-Wright Flying Service and attracted considerable interest. The system is employed in military maneuvers and in directing fighting forest fires and managing landing crews for Zeppelins. It has been proposed as a method for Presidential candidates to use in carrying their messages to the country.

Hard Soft CORNS

Gone In 4 Days
Roots and All
Callouses Too

Out to stay out—selling like hot cakes in Great Britain and now in America—the pleasant, easy way to get rid of corns—a joyous, refreshing, invigorating foot bath for 3 or 4 nights and then lift out the corn—roots and all.

They call this miracle worker Radox and since it has been working wonders with the bad feet of the tight little ladies—plasters and acids, cutting and skin destroying liquid belong to the dark ages. It's the modern way—the sensible way to take out corns—to abolish callouses—to dissolve the hard skin from heels and toes and to put your feet in good vigorous condition so that you can walk and run and jump and dance with ease and pleasure.

Just ask for a box of Radox at any modern drug store—you'll be delighted. Adv.

THIRTY - TWO GRADUATE FROM SCOUT TRAINING CLASS HERE

Culminating their efforts as members of the First Greene County Scout Leader's Training Class, thirty-two men were guests of the Xenia Kiwanis Club at dinner and graduation exercises at the Elks' Club Tuesday evening.

President Charles A. Bone, of the Kiwanis Club presided as toastmaster but turned part of the meeting over to H. E. Eichman, chairman of the Training Class, who introduced the speakers.

Homer T. Gratz, Scout field executive of Tecumseh Council, delivered a short address on "Facts About Scouting." This last minute substitution was necessary because of the unavoidable absence of Perle Whitehead, chief Scout executive, Dayton. Scouter Gratz declared that during this season there is nothing unusual about holding a graduation exercise.

"Within the next few months many people will be graduating from the colleges and high schools of this country. These people have all been attending school in order to prepare themselves to become more successful in life. Very few of these graduates have been attending school for the sole purpose of becoming better equipped to render service to the other person."

He asserted that of the thirty-two men receiving diplomas all have given of their time with the hope that it would enable them to render better service to the boyhood of this community. "A careful analysis of the faculty of this twelve candles representing the school shows that not only the students have been attending because of this unselfish instinct but that almost every man who has served in the capacity of an instructor has been a volunteer," he said.

The Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the First Lutheran Church and a member of the training class faculty gave a short address on "The Scouters" a magazine published in the interests of Scout leadership training in Greene County.

In a contest "What's Wrong With This Picture," the Rev. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M. E. Church, found the most mistakes and was presented a copy of "Handbook For Boys" by Louis Hammerle, chairman of the Greene County Court of Honor. Paul McFarland was the recipient of a five pound sack of sugar in an elimination membership card contest. A rapid fire by friction demonstration was made by Lester Price, junior assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 41 and a member of the training class.

Following the preliminary program Scouter Hammerle, superintendent of Xenia public schools, called a court of honor consisting of John Vanderpool, Dr. Edward Kern, Earl Mann, T. H. Zell and Edward Galloway.

In a candlelight ceremony, Scouter Blackburn and Gratz added to the effectiveness of the occasion by illuminating three candles representing the three positions of the Scout oath and the full analysis of the faculty of this twelve candles representing the Scout laws. Following this the thirty-two certificates were distributed by Chairman Hammerle. Minimum requirement certificates were given to W. A. Buffenbarger, the Rev. Russell Burkett, S. A. Evers, the Rev. R. W. Knoop, Dr. Austin Patterson, Carl F. Mellage, Lester Price, C. P. Yowler, Louis Hammerle, Merrill L. Dawson, Leonard Trunell and L. H. Barnes.

E. L. Blackburn, one of the patrol leaders of the recent training class, received an advanced certificate. This was the only one of its kind issued at Tuesday's graduation exercises.

Those receiving approved certificates included John G. Baldwin, C. F. Bay, A. E. Cheney, D. W. Cherry, Purl E. Cox, Robert R. Finlay, Fred W. Lang, Carl S. Pramer, E. A. Roberts, H. K. Snyder, John Vanderpool, Dr. J. A. Yoder, H. E. Eichman, Paul McFarland, S. N. McClellan, J. J. Stout, Glen R. Johnson, J. F. Mollitor and the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold.

In appreciation of the splendid dinner served by the Kiwanis Club, Scouter Hammerle presented the organization with a handsomely decorated turtle shell bearing a colored transfer of a first class Boy Scout badge.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

RECEIVING AND GIVING—For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the Scriptures.—1 Cor. 15:3, 4.

NAVAL AGREEMENT

The tripartite agreement reached at the London conference contemplate approximate fleet parity between the United States and Great Britain. Consequently no offense can fairly be taken in any quarter in this country goes ahead and builds the tonnage necessary to attain that status; but the manner in which it proceeds to that end may be subject to misconstruction. The ostentatious precipitation of Congressman Britten, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, to lay keels suggests the danger of the most significant eventuations of the London conference being overlooked in the haste to overtake Great Britain on the sea.

The prevention of a naval race between the United States, Great Britain and Japan by fixing the tonnages beyond which they may not build, except under the safeguarding clause, was undoubtedly the most important concrete achievement of the conference. This bracketed these three countries for the limitation of all categories of naval armament. They have become allies in the cause of peace on the seas. The sincerity and cordiality of that alliance should not be challenged or disturbed by overzealousness in Washington to put the shipyards to work.

Quite as significant as this achievement, however, was the self-isolation of France from good naval society and to a considerable extent from good political society. This was not contemplated when the London conference was called; and it would not have eventuated from the conference if France had not pursued her cocksure, arrogant and selfish course to the bitter end. She has now completed the isolation begun when Sir Austen Chamberlain, who was partly educated in France and once stated that he loved her like a woman, was superseded as foreign minister in London by a man who refused to let his country be pulled about by the nose by Aristide Briand, Germany naturally has no profound love for her. She detests Soviet Russia and it her. She has embittered Italy. Great Britain was her last hope and now that is gone.

Since the World War France's policy has been based on a strange complex of fear and braggadocio. Alone among the continental European countries France has continued to finger the sabre, as if she had won the war that would have wiped her off the map in six weeks if it had not been for the allies she has progressively alienated. She is now reduced to consorting with numerous little satellites on the continent, all of which together haven't the puissance of a first-class power. This is what France has brought upon herself by refusing to play with her neighbors at the London conference; and it is one of the most significant recent events in world politics. Our haste to take advantage of the London treaty should not be such as to infer that we do not understand that fact or to give the impression that we are imbued with spirit that has placed France outside the pale.

Even if it will be forty years before another eclipse of the sun can be seen in this country, what is the difference? In a few years, people will be flying a thousand miles or so for week-end trips, and they can go where the eclipses are if the eclipses will not come to them.

A life insurance company official recently remarked that friends are the greatest assets a man can accumulate. But when friends are considered assets don't they cease to be friends?

It wouldn't be so bad to have conditions at a low ebb in the senate if there were any prospect that a turning point may be reached. Unfortunately things just keep on ebbing and ebbing.

Gandhi's mantle has fallen temporarily on the shoulders of his wife, and from pictures of it, we should say that her shoulders are about all that it will cover.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

OTHER END OF SERVICE

When we are asked to do community work, collect money for charity, promote welfare, take a lot of time away from our business, our first feeling is likely to be one of resentment. We wish to say we haven't time and we don't want to do it, anyway. The fact is that this kind of work gives us our big chance to be lifted out of the rut and routine of life. Most of the time we spend on our regular jobs or on the road to and from our regular jobs. Really to know life and to enjoy it to the full we must take advantage of occasions which will turn our thoughts above the mere job making of our days.

DEAD POLITICIANS

Somebody dealing in wise phrases defines a statesman as "only a dead politician." A smart definition with no truth in it. The man who is only a politician is dead before he starts. It makes little difference either way. It's a matter of horizons. It's a matter of the distance we can swing our thoughts. A politician thinks in terms of the sixth ward or the city or the state. A politician may even think in terms of his country. A statesman thinks in terms of his country in relation to humanity. The statesman pushes down horizons and projects his thought along the far roads of the world.

HAVE TO DO IT

You remember the bed-time story of the turtle that was pursued by a bear or something or other. Father, telling the story, said the turtle escaped by climbing a tree. "But," said Willie, "turtles can't climb trees."

"Yes," said father, "but this turtle HAD to climb a tree."

Dean Roscoe Pound, of Harvard Law school, departed for Oxford university to deliver a series of lectures which he had carefully prepared over a long period of hard work. On ship-board he discovered he had left all his notes behind. He went on to Oxford and delivered his lectures beautifully, without notes. He made his memory perform as it had never performed before—because he had to.

All of us have resources beyond what we use. It's a splendid thing to have them called out by having to do things that are seemingly beyond our powers.

REVERIE

Too much reverie and not enough thought in our programs. Reverie is uncontrolled thinking. Our thoughts wander away and over the hills like the breeze of a summer afternoon. Thoughts are tools. They are constructive. They can be controlled. They can be used for a purpose. We can get somewhere by thinking. By reverie we drift around and about in circles, getting nowhere.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

KEEP OFF

NEW YORK CITY, New York.—Motoring in the suburbs aboard the Galloping Goose on Sabbath days, we come across numerous signs telling what will happen to us if we hunt or fish on the premises. They warn, they threaten and they beg. And for them all we do not give a Billyedam.

Our idea of a sign to attract attention and respect is one that Arthur James, one-time excellent reporter, now Beau Brummel of publishers and always a gentle humorist, put up at his country place. It reads:

"Control that sportsman's wild ambition, 'For here you'll neither hunt nor fish."

Anyone who would invade Mr. James' domain after his kindly reminder, would be first cousin to a coconut thrown.

It was James who described Broadway once as "a glass of champagne with rose petals floating on top—and the thorns just beneath."

EXCLUSIVE

For a long time certain writers of the hinterlands, waxing sarcastic, humorous and otherwise, have tried to kid "New York's 400" out of existence. Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Harold Vanderbilt, Mrs. Vincent Astor and other society folk will not have it so.

They are determined to keep "The 400," as applied to New York society by the late Ward McAllister, in evidence. So they have organized the River Club, and the membership will be limited to "400" folk from New York society. It will be modeled after certain London establishments, and will occupy four floors of an apartment house on the now fashionable East River waterfront.

The old name for it was the "gas house district."

COME BACK?

"NOT ANOTHER DROP!"

OPPOSITION TO FEDERAL FARM BOARD NOW WELCOMED BY CHAIRMAN LEGGE

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Chairman Alexander Legge, of the federal farm board, gave a harsh growl of satisfaction and hung up his phone.

The U. S. chamber of commerce, representing all the country's biggest business interests, had just adopted resolutions denouncing operation of the agricultural marketing act, by virtue of which the farm board functions, and demanding reduction in the latter's status, from one of the most powerful administrative bodies in America to the calibre of a mere information bureau.

It was to a scout's report of this development that Chairman Legge had been listening.

He smiled.

When the earth's face puckered in an elemental grin and the Rockies were uplifted, the effect (considerably magnified of course) must have been somewhat similar to the expression which passed transiently over Alexander Legge's crazy features.

I mean to say that even Chairman Legge's smile looks like something to be reckoned with in terms of dynamite and other high explosives—and as if it might not yield to them, either, very easily.

"Exactly what we've needed," said Chairman Legge, of the U. S. chamber of commerce's resolutions. "Some good, strong opposition!" "Now we shall begin to get real solidarity into the farmers."

A man in the middle of a western prairie, sighting the merest approach of a cack in the extreme distance and surmising it to be a tin Lizzy or some such vehicle, but not knowing another thing about it, would sense the fact a traveler of unusual importance was coming—if the tourist happened to be Alexander Legge.

He might pass with only the briefest, "Howdy?" but that prairie dweller would remember him.

In other words, Chairman Legge radiates "personality."

He has the personality of brains and obvious, tremendous strength and cold, chilled steel courage. "For instance, when the U. S. chamber of commerce delegates got together a few days ago for their annual meeting, they sent repeated messages to him, asking him to appear and address them; but Chairman Legge, who hates speechmaking and all sorts of palaver, kept knocking—until he learned that what the delegates wanted was to get him into their midst and then jump on him with hobsnails. As soon as he discovered that, he hurried right over—and (believe me) it was a dilapidated-looking set of delegates he left behind him when he emerged from that verbal free-for-all."

Chairman Legge (he signs his Tammany Hall. There were no beer trucks or speakeasy long present, for Izzy has given these boys plenty of trouble.

Disguised as a ham sandwich, a lamp-post or a bottle of Zoolack, Izzy and his partner, Moe Smith, were terrors to dry-law evaders for several years after prohibition. In about five years they seized thousands of quarts of liquor and made as many as 60 raids a day. They had 361 sets of false whiskers, as many other disguises as Lon Chaney and they made the front page of the newspapers every day.

That's the trouble—they got so much publicity some boy down in Washington got jealous, and three years ago they went into eclipse.

What's all this testimonial dinner about? Testimonial what? For a come-back?

first name "Alex") is not an easy name to quote.

It was mostly my own interview anyway.

That is, I furnished nearly all the conversation and the farm chairman acknowledged it from time to time with moneyable affirmative—or negatives (he is not one of those persons who could never learn how to say "No"; not by any means).

American farmers (other farmers also, doubtless, but especially American farmers, because they have had so much room to expand in) always have been at the disadvantage of being scattered all over the landscape; not in bunches, like urban folk, who, living in crowds, are able to unite on schemes for their mutual benefit.

The industrial leaders were first to avail themselves of their favorable situation to combine in their own economic interest.

Though in a minority, they gave government a slant distinctly their way—at the farmers' expense, decidedly. Presently city labor likewise saw the point; proceeded to organize, too, and finally succeeded in wringing out of the employing classes something approaching, at least, a fair share of the product of the toilers' efforts—the urban toilers.

The farmers, in the meantime, were the nation's step-children.

A war gave them a boom occasionally, but subsequently the city folk invariably jacked up their own prosperity a few notches higher and agriculture sagged lower than ever.

For a long while, as often as agricultural conditions became so miserable that the farmers could endure them no longer, they moved on into the west and homesteaded fresh, free land, which paid better than their older eastern acres—on the principle that the returns from a quarter section which had cost nothing at all is clear velvet, whereas it may be impossible to get dividends (or even to meet the purchase-money mortgage) on a quarter section which cost $25,000.

The agricultural slump after the last war, however, caught the farmers foul, and no mistake about it.

Free land worth having is all gone, and agriculture never was in such bad shape.

Chairman Legge's problem is to find a remedy.

"The farmers," he says, "must organize—like business, and labor." And he begins shooting ginger into the co-operative movement.

So far, good. Business of all sorts theoretically is friendly to the idea of agricultural prosperity; the more money the farmers make, the more money business can make out of them.

However, agricultural organization having been effected, what can it accomplish for the farmers unless they do something with it? Precisely, and the first thing to do (says Chairman Legge) is to use it to cut out a lot of useless middle men, between producer and consumer, thus saving a goodly sum for the farmers to put in their pockets, while simultaneously, maybe, some reducing prices to the consuming public.

But the useless middle men! The worst of it, from their standpoint, is that they never would have suspected such a policy from Chairman Legge.

Multimillionaire head of the huge International Harvester company when he took over his present chairmanship, like themselves he was big businesslike, they took it for granted; who could have imagined that he would suddenly become possessed of this "socialistic" passion to help agriculture by actually helping it?

The useless middle men! The U. S. chamber of commerce! Those resolutions!

So far five vitamins have been discovered. Among the most important of these is vitamin B, the vitamin of growth. Children especially need this vitamin, which, although it is contained in almost every meal, is often not in sufficient quantities for them. Give a child a glass of orange juice with a whole wheat cereal, such as shredded wheat, with plenty of milk and he will be getting all five of the vitamins.

Diet and Health

Letter of Appreciation

"DEAR DOCTOR: I feel greatly indebted to you for the help I received from your Petersizing pamphlet, and I am writing to express my gratitude and hope my letter will help someone else.

"Eight months ago I weighed 194 pounds. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall, 33 years old, so I don't need to tell you that I was a burden to myself. My friends told me I could never hope to be anything but fat, as my parents were much overweight. After reading your column for a long while, I decided to try to reduce, so got the 'million dollar' pamphlet. It was a little hard at first, but I was determined. I now weigh 145 pounds—a loss of 49 pounds. I'm still reducing. It is so easy now, and so interesting. What a thrill I get when I step on the scales each Saturday morning and find I have lost from one and a half to two pounds!"

"I feel like a new person: have lost that stuffy feeling, my shortness of breath and many other uncomfortable feelings. Had to make all my clothes smaller, but it was a joy. Thank you again and again, and I hope these who think that they have inherited flesh will know better now."

"MRS. W."

Thank you for your appreciative letter, Mrs. W. I know it will do a lot of good, so I am running it. Those who need instructions on reducing or gaining may have our Petersizing pamphlet by following column rules.

Mrs. Y. You must have mistaken my column for some other medical column, for I never write that "if you will tell me every thing," I can help you. For no physician who does not personally examine a patient can do that. You must go to a competent physician, Mrs. Y., who can give you a complete examination and advice.

Mrs. T.: During the menopause (or change of life) there may be quite an increase in the blood pressure, but it has been observed that these cases are not accompanied by hardening of the arteries or kidney trouble at all. Usually the patients are overweight and a reduction to normal helps lower the pressure. These seem to have no particular symptoms from the pressure itself, and this type of high blood pressure usually goes down after the menopause is completed.

We have a pamphlet on the Hygiene of Women which tells more about the change of life. We also have an article on Blood Pressure. See column rules for obtaining these.

Mrs. H: Yes, swimming is considered one of the best all-around developing exercises there is.

R.: You had better have a physical examination to be sure a large abdomen is due to fat only. If it is, just persist in the diet and exercises, and wear a snug abdominal binder, and it will go down.

For those who need them, we have some splendid exercises outlined in our article on the Abdominal Wall.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling for each article wanted, two cents. Keep on as you have been doing, being true and loving, and try to plan good times with him and the children.

And then, if he does come to the place where he leaves you, it will surely be that there is something morally lacking in his makeup, so try not to grieve too hard.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

LOVELORN NANCY: Dear little girl, there is no reason why you shouldn't love this boy and try to make yourself sweeter and better because you do. No, don't follow him home, because he might get the wrong idea, you see, and it wouldn't at all help to win him. Quite the opposite. I think the best way to win him is to "wait patiently," as you say, until you have a chance to get to know him better and to talk to him. He may like you a lot and be too bashful to let you see it, but usually if a boy likes a girl he has ways of letting her know it, and this boy will, too, if he cares. There is no way of knowing if he does or not, you see.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Do you really think a man could lose the love for his wife that has been true and loving for 20 years? We have four wonderful children all so devoted to their father and he thinks the world of them, but at times he seems so discontented and dissatisfied with us all.

"I don't know sometimes what steps to take, but never nag at him and we never quarrel. He is also good to me and the children, but I know there is another woman he thinks of and he knows I know it.

"Do you believe this is just an infatuation, and if I continue to be kind and true he will see what a great mistake he is about to make and be the same to us again? Our dear children need us, and so much of the best part of our lives has been spent together. We need each other."

SISTER.

That is your only hope, dear Sister, if your husband really is in love—or thinks he is—with another woman, and not merely temporarily tired of the grind and looking for a change. You have the best chance. All the years you have lived together will plead for you. All you have meant to him since you first met, and the children whom you have cared for together all these years will be your strongest card. Don't try to "hold him," I mean so he will feel that he is not free. Keep on as you have been doing, being true and loving, and try to plan good times with him and the children.

And then, if he does come to the place where he leaves you, it will surely be that there is something morally lacking in his makeup, so try not to grieve too hard.

ALLURE: You say the boy friend will go anywhere you want him to. So tell him frankly you would like to go to a show once, in a while. Don't stipulate that you want to go once a week however. That might be too expensive. As to relying on a fellow for four years before marrying him, it depends on him. Some fine and sensible young folks are engaged so long so that they can get a start financially, and then marry and are very happy.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a reader of your column and would like to know if it is improper for a girl to ask her boy friend when he is leaving when he is coming back, after having dates for almost one and one-half years."

Fans are generally registering their approval of the Softball Commission's action in re-organizing the Xenia Softball League and dividing the ten teams into two separate leagues as a means of bringing about more spirited competition.

Popularity of the move was reflected instantly at the attendance at the opening National League game Monday night. This contest was better patronized than any other since the first few games of the season.

It indicates that interest in softball is undergoing a revival because the fans are assured of witnessing games between comparatively well matched teams throughout the balance of the summer in the American as well as the National League. The clash between Geysers and the Carroll-Binder Co. teams Wednesday night is the headliner for this week and every sign points to a bitterly contested struggle. Carroll-Binder walloped the Downtown Country Club, 1929 city champs, two weeks ago and figures to give the slugger Geysers outfit plenty of opposition. The Lang Chevrolet Co.-D. T. C. Club battle Friday night should also be a hummer.

These days are prosperous ones for the once humble Cincinnati Reds. During the present invasion of the Eastern teams all clubs have looked alike and have been treated impartially by Howley's crowd, which seems to be a rejuvenated ball club. When their batting is weak the Reds have been getting good pitching and when the hurlers fall down on the job the batters come to life and do the rescue act.

Cincinnati, after a bad start, is now above the .500 percentage mark in the matter of games won and lost. The Reds took three out of four from Boston, two out of three from New York and three out of four from the Phillies. Now the battle with Brooklyn is on. The Dodgers have won and lost the same number of games as the Reds or rather that was the case on Tuesday.

Former Sheriff Morris Sharp, proprietor of the Recreation Parlor, which is sponsoring a Miami Valley bowling tournament for Class A and Class B teams, has been advised that a Newark, O., entry, classed as one of the peerless teams of the state, will roll in the tourney Saturday night. This team was prevailed upon to enter through the good offices of Al Regan, former proprietor of the local alleys, who is now located at Newark. It is still possible that the Red Wing Co. quintet of Dayton of which the famous Tommy Zavaros is a member, may also enter the tournament.

The junior baseball team being sponsored by Foody Post, American Legion, is practicing earnestly several times each week and expects to put a strong team in the field, composed of youths under the age limit of 17. Soon the local entry will begin to play scheduled games as the first step in determining district champions and finally a state champion to compete in the national Legion tourney.

FOUR AMERICANS IN GOLF FOURTH ROUND

FORMBY, England, May 14.—Inspired by the great, extra-hole victory of their team leader, Glenna Collett, over Molly Gourlay, the best in England, three other Americans—Helen Hicks, Maureen Orcutt and Mrs. Leo Fiederman—rode through the fourth round of the British women's golf championship to impressive victories today.

Hardly had the echo of Glenna's twenty-hole triumph over the English ace resounded down the fairways when little Miss Hicks dropped the winning putt on the nineteenth hole against Mrs. Garon. A minute later, Miss Orcutt reported a 3 to 2 victory over Miss E. C. Rudgard and Mrs. Fiederman came in with an 8 to 7 decision over Mrs. Dudley Charles.

Two of the remaining three Americans, Miss Edith Quier and Miss Virginia Van Wie, suffered heart-breaking defeats. Both were beaten, one down on the eighteenth green, the former losing to Miss Daisy Ferguson and the latter to Miss Kathleen MacDonald.

FOUR YOUTHS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Charged with burglary and larceny in connection with the $40 from a barn on the farm of State Representative R. D. Williams, Jamestown Pike, last Wednesday night, four colored youths were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each by Municipal Judge E. D. Smith Tuesday.

Ralph Jones, 22, and his brother, Ellis, 20, living on the Jamestown Pike entered a guilty plea, but George Baker, 21, and Ralph Jackson, 21, also implicated in the robbery by a confession said to have been obtained from Ralph Jones, pleaded not guilty.

GUARDSMEN LOSE TO COUNTRY CLUB NINE BY DECISIVE SCORE

Winners Uncork Hot Attack To Take 23 To 14 Game

Repeating their early season victory over Company L, the Xenia Country Club Caddies defeated the local National Guard unit team by the decisive margin of 23 to 14 in the inaugural American League softball game played in a drizzle of rain Tuesday night at Cox Athletic Field.

Ten home runs, including eight circuit swats by the Caddies, featured the batting orgy. Bankard and Hornick each hit two homers while Smith, Tuhey, Shaffer and Short also weighed in with four-baggers. McKinley and Burnett had round trip tickets for Company L.

The Caddies reached the peak of their offensive in the second inning, scoring eight runs. The fifth inning was also an eight-run stanza for Company L. Six and a half innings were played.

Swindler pitched for Company L and Smith was the hurler for the Caddies.

SPRING VALLEY HIGH CLAIMS DIAMOND TITLE

Here is Spring Valley High School's champion baseball team, which will represent Greene County in district Class B high school diamond tournament to be held at the University of Dayton Friday and Saturday this week. Spring Valley is undefeated in local high school diamond circles this season and recently became eligible for the district meet by emerging with flying colors in the county elimination baseball series.

Meter readers are now engaged in making the quarterly reading for June 1 and are finding many instances of large bills for this time of year. The meter reading is from the middle of February to the middle of May and ordinarily shows the smallest consumption of water of any quarter of the year.

However, according to a check-up on meter readings and charts, the current quarter may compare favorably with the usual September 1 reading, usually the highest of the year.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 14.—Tuesday's closing spurt in the industrial favorites was carried into the early trading today. Though prices were somewhat irregular at the opening, sufficient buying demand flowed in to force prices 1 to 2 1/2 points higher before the end of the first half hour. Stock sales in this period totaled 501,000 shares, against 279,000 in the same period yesterday.

The shorts in radio were given another mild squeeze as that stock rose 2 points to above 52. Radio Keith in the meantime advancing to 43 1/2. Wall Street did not seem concerned over the government's suit designed to hook the legality of the proposed hook-up of Radio, General Electric and Westinghouse interests.

From this photo, taken in Boston, one would not suppose that Patrick E. Crowley, left, president of the New York Central, and General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, are bending every effort in a competitive way to prevent each other from gobbling up additional railroads. They had just come from a hearing of a plan (which the Pennsylvania doesn't like) by which the Pennsylvania would relinquish its New England holdings for the consolidation of all railroad lines in New England (which isn't liked by the New York Central, either, because of its New England holdings).

CHAPTER LVII

Greg, after an almost all-night party in the apartment of his friend, Gaby De Sylva, was not in such an amiable mood.

He was really getting afraid of her. Again she had made it very plain that she had no intention of letting him marry Elanda Lee. She had threatened to take matters into her own hands.

There were other persons there, and she had become very much warmed with champagne and didn't care who knew that she had her troubles. She aired them noisily. Greg didn't want his private affairs discussed before other persons. Especially his affairs with such women as Gaby.

Greg had tried buying Gaby off. But, boring as it was, she seemed to desire him rather than his money. Although she had no objection to the money being thrown in.

Greg was getting fed up with everything. He really wanted to marry Elanda. He thought he would just insist that she marry him immediately or not at all. If she saw his millions slipping away from her she would—no doubt.

Elanda—he didn't know why she was the one girl in the world he desired to marry. He supposed it was her beauty. She had stirred at times, the better instincts in him.

The day he had taken her out to the summer place at Great Neck it had all seemed so sweet and so peaceful, and she so desirable, that he had entertained serious ideas of reforming and making something of himself. But other things had come up meanwhile, and he never seemed to get around to the business of reforming. Maybe marriage would help some.

His breakfast all tasted alike to him. Today he snapped at his valet so viciously that the man had almost answered him back. It was in such a mood that Suwanee found him.

When Suwanee was announced Greg was dumbfounded. He told the servant to bring him in and held out his hand in greeting. Suwanee ignored it.

Greg raised his brows: "Well, Collier, what's on your mind? Sit down."

Suwanee sat. He thought he could talk better to Greg if he sat down.

Suwanee came right to the point by handing Greg Elanda's ring. Greg looked at it in astonishment.

"Where did you get this?" "Miss Lee gave it to me. She also gave me a message for you. Her engagement with you is broken—and she wants you to be certain that you never cross her path again. Is that clear, Du Pont?"

Greg half rose—his face red with anger. Then he sat back.

"By what right do you handle Miss Lee's affairs of heart, Collier? How long has this been going on?"

"By the right that she has no one else here in New York to protect her from rotters like you. I'm not in an amiable mood this morning."

Suwanee's jaw hardened. The men faced each other for a moment. Then Greg laughed. It was an ugly laugh.

"While you are being the good father protector, Collier, I suppose you wouldn't mind explaining to me what I have done to deserve this—this outrageous—"

Suwanee stopped him with a lift of his hand.

"That's what I came here to tell you, too. Yesterday afternoon you had a telephone conversation with Mrs. Durkin. You planned to go away with her for the week end. Elanda heard the conversation."

Greg's face grew pale and he grasped the arms of his chair. Then he forced a laugh and shrugged.

"Well, that's that! Dixie will have to be more discreet about her affairs after this. Married women always have to."

Suwanee jumped up and towered over him menacingly.

"Du Pont, if you say another thing like that I'll break every bone in your body! Mrs. Durkin knew what she was doing. She did it deliberately to prove to Elanda the kind of man you are. It was framed. You hadn't a chance to take her away with you."

Greg had grown beet red with anger. He got up from his chair.

"You place a lot of faith in Dixie Durkin, don't you? I'm surprised at your falling for a cock-and-bull story like that."

Suwanee said between his clenched teeth:

"I came here to convince you of its truth."

Greg turned from him and laughed coldly.

"Ah! Don't be a sucker. You didn't know her when she was kicking in a chorus, running around with every Tom, Dick and Harry in town—when she was in Scanties, did you? All you know is the sweet wife and mother stuff. Be yourself!"

Suwanee lost his head.

You are the worst swine I ever have seen. I hate to dirty my hands on you or I'd break your neck. Before I leave this place, I'll make you eat that. It isn't enough that you try to ruin the life of a girl like Elanda Lee. Now you try to lie to save your own face at the expense of another woman's honor."

Then Greg sneered. Before he even had time to answer, Suwanee struck at him. They were evenly matched in size. But Greg Du Pont was too soft to fight a man's fight.

Jamestown News

On Friday evening, May 9, at 8 o'clock the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gordin was the scene of a carefully planned surprise party honoring Mr. Gordin. About eighty guests, including members of the Sunday School class of the honored guest, were present.

Rev. L. L. Gray gave a splendid talk introducing a Mother's Day program after which the following guests took part in the program: Rev. O. Perry Bantz, Mrs. W. W. Barnett, Mr. D.

The Theater

Divorce, solace of stage and film stars, has claimed two more of the brightest constellations in the entertainment firmament—Frances Starr, noted stage actress and Colleen Moore, just-as-noted film star.

Miss Starr was divorced Monday from William Haskell Coffin, celebrated artist and illustrator, whom she married May 27, 1920. She contended she had to support herself, her husband and three children by a former marriage. She charged failure to provide. Her maiden name was restored.

And less than thirty minutes after she took the witness stand Tuesday, Colleen Moore had been granted an interlocutory decree from John McCormick, studio executive, and not related to the celebrated tenor. They were married August 18, 1923. Both were long marriages for people in the profession.

And while these two were celebrating their divorces the girl with the most beautiful legs in the world was celebrating her marriage to Eddie Foy, Jr., of the well-known theatrical family.

The girl is Barbara Newberry, formerly of Boston, Vassar and Broadway showgirl and the marriage was a civil ceremony performed by a deputy New York city clerk in the municipal chapel at City Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Max Newberry, parents of the bride, were the only witnesses.

Barbara joined the Ziegfeld ranks after her graduation from Vassar and was Flo Ziegfeld who said she had the world's most beautiful legs. The legs were recorded in a figure created by Mahonri Young, the sculptor. The romance began when the principals were playing a romantic duet in Ziegfeld's "Show Girl" several years ago. Foy lives at 234 Weyman Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y., and is director for Warner Bros.

As predicted rather generally, Marc Connelly has won the Pulitzer 1930 drama award for his play, "The Green Pastures," a drama of the Old Testament as pictured by Negroes of the South, which is being played by an all-Negro cast in New York now.

The play was suggested to Connolly by Roark Bradford's book, "Ol' Man Adam an' His Children." The drama award amounts to $1,000. The committee had a number of good dramas to select from. Martin Flavin had two plays on Broadway this season that were considered worthy of mention and John Wexford's "The Last Mile" was also considered a very well written play. Critics, however, conceded Connelly, who is one of the best known of America's younger playwrights, had struck the peak with his unusual offering. He formerly collaborated with George S. Kaufman, the former critic, and their first contribution to the stage was "Dulcy," staged here during the past season by the Xenia Little Theater Guild.

C. L. and A. F. Jeffries, who have been conducting the Detroit St. Theater for the last six months, closed a deal for the purchase of the Dreamland Theater on W. Main St. and will close their present theater.

Leslie Barnes, a high school student, of S. Detroit St., has taken a position at the Sayre and Hemphill drug store.

Harold Owens, one of Xenia's most popular young men, will take up the work of traveling salesman in the interest of John Bockel and Son, manufacturers and importers of Chicago.

Frank Foley is wearing a bright smile over the arrival of a fine ten-pound son, born May 10.

SHERIFF OF CLARK COUNTY FACES SUIT

A $1,500 damage suit was filed in the Clark County common pleas court Tuesday by Eldon C. Barcafer against Sheriff George W. Benham, former Xenian, based on an auto accident at High and Plum Sts. in Springfield last April 18 in which the plaintiff claims to have suffered personal injuries through alleged negligence on the part of the sheriff.

Barcafer asserts Sheriff Benham was driving along Plum St., without displaying lights on the front or rear of his auto and that he ran through a red light, crashing into the plaintiff's machine, which in turn was thrown against a third car.

WHITE CHAPEL

AID SOCIETY TO PRESENT MISSIONARY DRAMA

"Two Masters," a three-act missionary drama by Bertha Cooper Fraser, will be presented at the White Chapel M. E. Church, Stone Road, by members of the Ladies Aid Society on Sunday evening, May 18, at 8 o'clock.

The play is under the direction of the minister of the church, Rev. W. N. Mantle.

"Two Masters" is an appealing story of the mission fields—how the daughter of a missionary, after four years of doubt, struggle, and defeat in America, has won a great victory and is returning to China to keep the trust. The drama features Frances Whittington Fox as "Miss Janet McCrea" who impersonates the daughter of the missionary. Other members of the cast are as follows: Mrs. Van Horne, a Christian lady of wealth who tries to serve two masters, Mrs. William Short; Mrs. Stuart, her invalid mother; Hannah L. Turner; Rachel, Helen and Charlotte, friends of Janet McCrea; Lucile Lott, Mary and Phyllis Benson; Mrs. C. Vonder Whit-Jones, a distinguished traveler and lecturer; Mrs. W. N. Mantle, and Mrs. Henry Weiss, president of the "Culture Club."

Special solo numbers between acts will be given by Mrs. Homer T. Gratz, Xenia and Russell Spahr, New Jasper.

Charles Thomas and John Beason are stage managers.

The public is cordially invited to attend this religious drama which will take the place of the regular services Sunday evening.

Fourteen members of the White Chapel Ladies Aid Society enjoyed a delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. Crampton Lott, Stone Road, Friday afternoon. A short business session was held which was followed by a social hour. Mrs. Ralph Spahr, Mrs. Roy Wade and Mrs. Ruth Boates Graham were added to the membership. A refreshment course with pretty spring appointments was served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Allen Haines. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy McDonald, Hussey Pike.

The condition of Mrs. H. D. Whittington, Stone Road, who has been ill at her home for some time, shows a little improvement. Mrs. H. D. Baker and little daughter Corinne, of Urbana, spent Thursday and Friday with Mrs. Henry Weiss and her mother, Mrs. Hannah Turner.
